POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

If the United States can overcome provincial politics at home, and play a good hand of poker abroad millions of American boys now fighting in the far-reaches of the Pacific will be doing business there or manufacturing goods here to be sold there, in the new era of trade and industrial expansion which is bound to follow the war!

The authority for that-preview of the post-war years, is big-bluff, capable George W. Malone of San Francisco, Reno and Washington, D. C., managing director of the Industrial West Foundation — and the gentleman who first foresaw the great industrial growth that has come to California and other Western States during the past few years.

Mr. Malone, an engineer with the vision and imagination of a Tennyson, but a practical chap who believes in implementing his dreams with plans and blueprints, has recently returned from the Western Pacific where, in New Guinea, he met touring United States senators, and had time to check up on American investments in air bases, harbors and other projects in Allied countries.

"Many of our boys who are now dropping bombs on the Japs out in the Pacific," predicts Mr. Malone—and his forecasts have a habit of coming true—"will be coming back in peace-time, landing 'flying freight-trains' there, laden with American goods. And they'll be taking off, too, on the return trip with things we need and want in America.

"Many of the kids now packing tommy guns out there, and fighting their way through the jungles, will be returning with engineering plans to push back the wilderness, or with brief cases or sample cases. It's inevitable, if stupid politics doesn't prevent it, and out of that new era of trade and industrial development will come jobs for millions of war veterans who would otherwise walk the streets for months on end, looking for work, or living on a government dole."

Don't get the idea, however, that George Malone is a Henry Wallace, with rosy ideas of putting a bottle of American milk on every foreign doorstep. Mr. Malone's idea is to sell the milk—not give it away. But to do that, he thinks the United States needs to make plans now to protect the investment it has made in air bases and harbors and other practical installations.

"There is no time like the present," says Mr. Malone, "for the people to demand that protection of the people's rights in these properties be made secure, and that equal rights in trade be established.

"The great economic opportunity of the future, for our people, will be on the Pacific front. One economic front will be in South America. The other is in the islands of the Pacific, like Australia, New Guinea, Caledonia, Fiji and New Zealand. In the international poker game after the war, there will be a determined attempt to strip us of our air bases and other improvements in these far-places, but they were built with American money and won, in large part, by American fighting men. And if the West still knows how to play poker, as it did in the early days, it can probably keep the East from giving away all we have won."

Board Accepts Zoning Plans

The county board of supervisors at Monday's meeting accepted the recommendation of the planning commission establishing zoning areas south and west of Campbell.

Regulations do not affect already established residents but will from now on determine the set back of buildings, minimum size of lots, and so forth.

Sanitary conditions are under the jurisdiction of the county board of health as heretofore.

ENCHANTED FOREST

Each pine bough wears
Blue starlight on sharp snow,
Bends silently to meet
The trackless shadows low,
Where hush as deep
As dreamless sleep
Awaits the midnight hour.

Then falls enchantment
On the winter world!
In oak tree bole,
And warren deep,
By frozen streams,
In creek-banks steep,
The forest creatures
Wake and pray,
"Our King is born
This Christmas Day!"

Club Members Meet for Festive Christmas Party

Facing blazing logs in the fireplace, under a mantle decorated with greens and reds and hung with Christmas stockings, the Country Woman's club held its annual Christmas party in the community hall Monday, Dec. 13. Wreaths hung on the curtains, a miniature snow scene on the speaker's table, lighted red candles and pine boughs, added to the festive Yuletide decorations.

Before settling down to sheer enjoyment of the occasion, a brief business meeting was held, during which gifts of money were voted to the Veteran's hospital and the Santa Clara County Tuberculosis association. Mrs. Guy Farley also called attention of the members to the gift to the club of a copy of "History of Santa Clara County" by Eugene T. Sawyer, which contains detailed information and pictures of many old settlers in Campbell. This book came from the library of the late Chauncey H. Whitman through the estate of his widow, who was at one time president of the club.

During the program which followed, Mrs. Hubert Wagner led the group in the singing of Christmas Carols, with Mrs. Virginia Rutherford at the piano and Rev. Donald H. Baldwin read the story "A Red Candle" from the book entitled "Holly Hedge" by Temple Bailey.

Hot punch, fragrant with spices, was served by the committee from the traditionay Wassail Bowl of England, which stood on the well appointed tea table that was centered with a huge blooming Poinsettia plant and laden with plates of cookies, nuts and sweets which were later passed around to the merry members who took the occasion to stimulate the feeling of good fellowship which goes with the season.

The committee in charge included Mrs. E. I. Price, Mrs. Frank Jacobson, Mrs. Oliver Price, Mrs. E. C. Price, Mrs. H. M. Shadle, Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, Mrs. Rose Hanger and Mrs. M. J. Palmer. This was the last meeting of this year, the next to be held on Jan. 3, 1944.

James Fox Rites Here Tomorrow

Death came to James S. Fox, resident of 30 Sunnyside avenue on Dec. 10.

Mr. Fox, a native of Texas, 63 years of age, had been engaged in cannery work during the past two years while living in Campbell.

He was the father of George W. Cox, Mrs. Jenobeba Oakes and Wayne C. Cox all of Richmond; Joe W. Cox, U. S. Army, and brother of Mrs. Ila Branham of Oakland.

Funeral services will be held from the Rutherford funeral home tomorrow, Friday, at 11 a. m., with interment in Santa Clara city cemetery.

PIPE, CIGAR AND CIGARETTE

No one single event in modern history has done more to spur the hope of a lasting peace than the recent meeting in Teheran of the famous trio who have become sympolized by the pipe, the cigar and the cigarette.

Their plan of action to bring the war in Europe to an early conclusion by striking at Hitler from the "east, west and south" is backed up by the military might, and the will and determination of almost half the people of the globe whom these "smokers" represent.

Their design for the post-war world will do much to prevent Germany from repeating the trick of winning the war 20 years after it is over.

While this conference and any future conference between the "Big Three" cannot in themselves accomplish all the desirable ends that free men hope for, they nevertheless are a long step in the right direction.

For one thing, Hitler now faces a solid political front. Any hope that he may have had of playing the Allies against one another has gone up in smoke—the smoke of a pipe, a cigar and a cigarette.

HEROES OF TODAY

An American Army officer—a Californian—stood on the Italian battlefield clutching his tommy gun. Already wounded, he slugged it out with several Nazi tanks, won the battle—and the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Thus the cool courage of the man and the stuttering fury of his weapon wrote another brilliant page in American military history. And what he did is being done in some degree the world over by the heroes of today.

Who are these heroes of today? They are the college students, the bank clerks, the farm boys, the mechanics and other civilian workers of yesterday. They have left their jobs to fill the ranks at the front.

Many of these young men have already decided not to go back to their old jobs but to make the Army or Navy their career, or to go into new lines of business.

This fact, together with the great shift of people into war industries, has opened many permanent positions in business to those thinking of their post-war future.

Not all of us can fight on the battlefield, but in our own small way we can be one of the "heroes of today" by doing our part on the home front.

BUTTONS! BUTTONS!

One of the casualties of the war is making a comeback—to help "support" the war effort.

Suspender buttons, taboo on men's work trousers, have been recalled from exile where they were sent by the War Production Board and will soon be available to keep the pants of war workers from "falling down on the job."

It seems that the working men never did approve the removal of suspender buttons. Having to trust all to a belt disturbed their peace of mind. Now, however, they should be able to pursue their duties with the confidence that they are no longer in imminent danger of disaster.

They say it is the little things in life that count—and suspender buttons are no exception!

THE AMERICAN BILL OF RIGHTS

The following message supporting the objectives and purposes of the Bill of Rights Week, the 152nd anniversary of its adoption from Dec. 12-18, was issued by James Mussatti, general manager of the California State Chamber of Commerce, and widely known author and lecturer on Consitiutional history.

"Senator Sumner of Massachusetts once said "Bills of Rights are lights of political wisdom and anchors of liberty. They are the constant index and also scourge of injustice and wrong."

"One hundred and fifty-two years of American history have demonstrated the necessity for the American Bill of Rights. In troublous times those who govern, and the people themselves, grow restive under restraints and oftentimes seek by sharp and decisive measures to accomplish ends deemed just and proper, but which imperil the principles of constitutional liberty. That is why Thomas Jefferson, George Mason and Patrick Henry insisted on a Bill of Rights as a guarantor of the immemorial privileges and rights of free men.

"One of the basic reasons for much of the fight over the ratification of the Constitution was due to the fact that the document, as it was submitted for ratification, did not contain a bill of rights.

The friends of the Constitution pledged that in the first Congress a series of constitutional amendments would be submitted for ratification by the states. Congress submitted the amendments in September of 1789 and they became part of the Constitution in December of 1791.

"Freedom of speech, of the press, of assembly, of religion, of petition—security of life, person and property—immunity from unlawful seizure and arbitrary arrest—the right of trial by jury and the like, constitute the bulwark of freedom.

"The basic philosophy of the American Bill of Rights lies in faith and dignity in the worth of the individual man and in the belief that the best way to secure the rights of men is just to leave them as free as possible to enjoy them.

"The American Bill of Rights makes possible four great freedoms:

1. Freedom of religion that the soul may be free.
2. Freedom of opinion that truth may prevail.
1. Freedom of occupation and enterprise that careers may be open to talent.
4. Freedom from arbitrary political authority in order that no man may be compelled against his will.

"For the support and the maintenance of our American Bill of Rights, we should not hesitate to pledge each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor!" —James Mussatti.

"SYNTHETIC" FOOD

Recent research work done by a St. Louis chemist indicates that yeast can be used as the basis for production of almost every kind of food right within the laboratory.

And this can be done in hours, instead of the weeks or months required by nature. It is completely independent of weather conditions. Just mix the proper ingredients and in one day your "crop" is "harvested."

Science has truly been the miracle-worker down through the years. The quest for scientific knowledge is the quest for the most efficient way of doing a given job. Scientific method was applied to shorten distribution lines from farmer to consumer, in refrigeration and improved packaging of goods. Americans have been quick to adopt scientific and progressive methods, but in the case of synthetic food it may be too revolutionary for them to accept.

Eating is not merely a matter of nourishment but of pleasure and entertainment. It might be all right to invite the Smiths over to a synthetic dinner as a novelty, but for a regular diet most people would prefer the old-fashioned, "down-to-earth" variety of edibles.

However, synthetic food is just another indication that in the modern laboratory wonders never cease.

On Christmas, as every day, we'll "keep 'em rolling"

THE HEAVY, URGENT TRAINS of war will roll as usual over our rails through the twenty-four hours of December 25th.

S.P. engineers and firemen, conductors, dispatchers, yardmen, brakemen — thousands of men and women of the many score crafts required to operate the West's biggest railroad — will be at their posts of duty.

With the "tools" of our trade — locomotives, cars, tracks and signals — we will move the war trains. We will move service men on furlough and members of their families, plus an enormous volume of food and industrial shipments.

Yes, the people of our railroad will be hard at work on Christmas. But still this Day will have for us a bright and special meaning — because you folks who live along our lines have made the Christmas Spirit so very real to us.

MEET MIDDLE AMERICA
Number 5 in a series on the countries of Middle America
COLON
"PANAMA" IS AN INDIAN WORD MEANING "ABUNDANCE OF FISH" THE PANAMA CANAL ZONE IS NOT OWNED BY THE UNITED STATES IT IS PERPETUALLY LEASED FROM THE REPUBLIC OF PANAMA AND RENT IS PAID ANNUALLY.
PANAMA
THE FIRST ATLANTIC TO PACIFIC RAILROAD WAS BUILT IN PANAMA--14 YEARS BEFORE COMPLETION OF THE FIRST TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILROAD IN THE U.S.
YOU TRAVEL EAST THROUGH THE PANAMA CANAL TO GO WEST! THE ATLANTIC END IS 22½ MILES WEST OF THE PACIFIC END. IN COLON YOU CAN SEE THE SUN SET IN THE ATLANTIC.
ALTHOUGH BALBOA TRAVELED THOUSANDS OF MILES TO REACH PANAMA, HE LIVED ON THE ATLANTIC SIDE OF THE ISTHMUS 12 YEARS BEFORE CROSSING IT TO DISCOVER THE PACIFIC---ONLY 31 MILES AWAY!
CLIMATE AND SOIL IN PARTS OF PANAMA MAKE POSSIBLE 4 CROPS A YEAR.
The presence of the Panama Canal across its back is by no means this republic's only wartime value. When the Japanese occupied the Philippines—the pre-war source for most of the world's hemp-yielding abaca—Panama, with a 2,000-acre experimental seed plantation of abaca, became the center for expansion of this vital crop throughout Middle America. With about 30,000 acres already in production, Middle America promises to supply all United States war needs for heavy Navy and Merchant Marine rops.
PEARL FISHING HAS ALWAYS BEEN AN ACTIVE INDUSTRY IN PANAMA. LARGEST PEARL EVER FOUND HERE WEIGHED 42 CARATS--WAS SIZE AND SHAPE OF PARTRIDGE EGG. SOLD FOR $5,000

Radio Invasion Weapon

MOBILE RADIO STATION LINKS LAND, SEA AND AIR INVADERS

The terrific power of American invasion forces is made possible by combining aerial, naval, and ground forces into a single assault. A radio weapon used for this purpose in the African, Sicilian, and Italian invasion is the Hallicrafters mobile radio station, which is landed on the invasion coast and used for 3-way communication between ground forces on the beach, attack bombers in the air, and battle ships at sea. The station, which is capable of traveling at high speed, consists of an American truck carrying a powerful short wave transmitter and twin receivers. This is coupled to a gasoline driven motor generator which supplies power for the high output station.

The Hallicrafters mobile radio station, known to Signal Corps fighters as the SCR-299, is capable of receiving and transmitting battle orders over hundreds of miles. The telephone shown on the left can be operated at a distance of one mile from the station itself. A complete duplicate of the transmitter and receiver is carried in the cabinet bench on which the operator sits. Signal Corps Photos

Our boys must keep on fighting—we must keep on buying WAR BONDS until victory is won. Keep on BACKING THE ATTACK.

You can eat your cake and have it, too—if you invest your CHRISTMAS savings in WAR BONDS. Keep on BACKING THE ATTACK.

Our Merchant Marine

THROUGHOUT OUR HISTORY OUR NAVY AND MERCHANT MARINE HAVE BEEN MUTUALLY DEPENDENT
This was well demonstrated in the Spanish-American war. The American passenger liner, St. Louis, under fire for 45 minutes at Santiago, Cuba, succeeded in cutting the cable to Madrid.
In World War I, American coastwise vessels led the great minelaying squadron that bottled up the German Fleet...
A U.S. merchant ship, the Mongolia, fired America's first gun in World War I at a submarine on April 19, 1917.
World War II has impressed the lesson of our former wars.
Recent Allied gains have coincided with the growth of our Merchant Marine. Never again must America be unprepared in merchant shipping.

John M. O'Keeffe, Christmas Seal sale chairman reports that no response has been received to several thousand letters sent out with stamps inviting purchases. If there are any such in Campbell, Martin Walsh, local chairman, earnestly requests that the money be sent in, or if it is impossible to purchase all or only part that the remainder be returned so that the office records can be cleared.

Campbell friends of Pvt. Donald E. Rice are sorry to hear he underwent an operation on Dec. 4 at Camp Breckenridge, Ky., hospital. He is convalescing but has to stay in the hospital 28 days after which he expects a 14-day furlough to further recover. He hopes to be home shortly after the New Year.

Make it a thrifty CHRISTMAS—give WAR BONDS. Keep on BACKING THE ATTACK.

CHECK OVER all your APPLIANCES NOW
You can put new life into your war weary appliances with systematic care. It is so easy to neglect these dependable mechanical servants in your home. Because they carry-on for you with so little care, too often it is common practice to work and work them until they go haywire or completely break down.
Check over all appliances now...one by one systematically. Clean them up. Dust them off. Oil them where oil is needed. Tighten up screws and bolts that are loose. Repair cords and plugs. Very few appliances are available. You MUST make yours do and see you through.

★ Duration-ize ★
WITH TIMELY REPAIR
When trouble first starts to develop with any of your appliances, ask us for the name of a repair dealer authorized by the factory to repair the particular make and type of appliance which is giving you trouble.

Gas and Electricity are Vital in War Production
